

Aida Abadzic Hodzic (Zagreb, 1970), graduated at the Faculty of Philosophy in Zagreb (Croatia) at the Chair of Art History and French language and literature. At the same Faculty she studied museology.

In 2003, she finished post-graduate studies in the field of art history and obtained M.A. at the Chair of modern art and visual communications at the Faculty of Philosophy in Zagreb. In 2008, she obtained Ph.D. at the Chair of Art History, Faculty of Philosophy in Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina, in the field of contemporary art.

From 1999 she lectures at the Chair of art history and theory at the Academy of Fine Arts in Sarajevo (Modern and contemporary art), as well as at the Music Academy and Faculty of Philosophy in Sarajevo (Art in Bosnia and Herzegovina in 19th and 20th century). She is editor-in-chief of the first bh. Magazine for contemporary visual arts, art critic and theory – “Vizura”, Sarajevo.

She is a Board member of the international foundation “Forum of Slavic cultures”, on behalf of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

She publishes art critics and reviews in various magazines and curates modern and contemporary art exhibitions in Bosnia and Herzegovina and abroad.

She is author of several important art monographies of B&H artists and she translated several books from English and French.