

Short profile Prof. Dr. med. Thomas Ganslandt (Heidelberg University)

After graduating in medicine, Prof. Ganslandt worked for the University Hospital Münster, the University of Erlangen-Nuremberg and the University Hospital Erlangen and completed his doctorate and his postdoctoral lecture qualification (habilitation) in medical informatics. He was engaged in several research projects in medical informatics and was appointed professor of Medical Informatics at Heidelberg University in 2018. Currently he is Executive Director of the Heinrich-Lanz Centre for Digital Health and head of the Department for Biomedical Informatics, Heidelberg University (Medical Faculty Mannheim).