Political roles of the military

raw_origin  Regime origin

Yearly measure whether a regime originates from a military background; that is, a military takeover or a civil war, and ensuing elections, if any, were according to Polity IV neither free nor fair. Assuming that the effect of a military origin diminishes after one generation we code the origin of regime spells as non-military if the regime constituting event occurred more than 25 years ago. Foreign military intervention is not considered as a military origin.

(0) no military origin
(1) military origin

raw_leader  Political leader

Yearly measure on the regime leader’s connection to the armed forces.

(0) no active member of the military/rebel leader
(0.8) retired member of the military (excluding general draft)
(1) active member of the military or rebel leader

raw_mod  Minister of defence

Yearly measure of the minister of defence’s connection to the armed forces.

(0) no active member of the military or simply no minister of defence
(1) active member of the military

References: DPI, other secondary sources.

raw_veto  Military veto-power

Yearly measure of the military’s veto-powers. This measure is based on BTI questions 2.2, effective power to govern, and 16.2, anti-democratic actors (BTI 2003-2014).

(0) military not identified as veto-player
(1) military identified as veto-player

References: BTI.

raw_repress  Military repression

Yearly measure of internal military deployment against opposition; this includes all de facto internal employment of the military to deter political dissent including fighting domestic insurgencies.

(0) military not deployed internally
(1) military deployed internally

References: Freedom House, BTI, USHRR.

raw_impun  Military impunity

Yearly measure of military impunity. The military enjoys impunity if members of the armed forces engage in illegal activities and there are no reports on prosecution and conviction, or prosecution and conviction are politically motivated, or de facto prosecution and conviction must be considered highly disproportional to the number and severity of crimes committed.

(0) no military impunity
(1) military impunity
