„The Many Shields of Achilles in Greek Vase Painting“

The Shields of Achilles, beyond Homer:

In the Iliad, the fabrication by Hephaistos of the shield of Achilles is the occasion to describe at length an entire double world, depicted on the shield. This shield is a pure marvel (thauma), revealing the virtuosity of both Hephaistos and Homer.

In vase painting there is no equivalent to such a shield; there are, however, many different depictions of the shield of Achilles. This paper will explore the ways painters have addressed the problem and expressed various aspects of Achilles heroism by using the pictures adorning his shield, playing with identity, time and visual metaphors.

Nach dem Vortrag bitten wir zu einem
